Step 1: I type (or copy/paste) my link into the “Status” box on Facebook:

Step 2: I erase the now-redundant link I typed (or pasted) in because my clients will know they can click on the title in the preview box to see more.

Cooperative Extension Service | Master Gardener Program

Alaska Master Gardeners are volunteers for the University of Alaska Fairbanks Cooperative Extension Service located in communities throughout the state. To become a Master Gardener, you must complete 40 hours of horticultural training and in return, volunteer 40 hours of time.
Step 3: I edit both the default page title and the description that popped up so that it is more concise and attractive for viewers. I do this by clicking on the line I want to edit, and an edit box with a flashing cursor should appear.

Step 4: I check to see if there is a photo I like better to accompany my post. Facebook tells you how many thumbnails there are to choose from. It is detecting any images on the page, so pages with no images in the body will have 0 available.

Step 5: Hit “Post” and watch the “likes” roll in ;)
