

You Are Invited!

Attention restaurant owners, chefs, fishermen, local farmers and gardeners and others in the food industry.

Alaska is one of five states considered to have the least secure food system. To help us better understand how food moves through the country, we would like your input on how local foods are grown, gathered or hunted.

Join Steve Brown, Extension agriculture agent, for a talk about food mapping and fill out a survey to help us better understand food security in the Mat-Su area.
