The Provost's Undergraduate Research Committee is bringing two external advisors from national Council on Undergraduate Research (CUR) to UAF campus to assist with assessment of current status and mapping a path toward the goal of a premier student-focused research university. The 2-person team will be on campus Oct. 6-7, 2010.

Their schedules are currently being finalized but ample opportunity will be provided for them to hear from chairs, deans/directors, faculty, and students. They want to hear all opinions, all viewpoints. While cheerleaders are great, they also want to hear from those who hold other views. The only way to ensure greater success is to hear what works and why as well as what might not work so well and why not. The CUR team consists of:

Janice DeCosmo (PhD Atmospheric Sciences)
Associate Dean, Undergraduate Academic Affairs
University of Washington

William Campbell (PhD Philosophy)
Director, Grants and Research
University of Wisconsin-River Falls

Full cvs will be available in advance of their visit and I'll be distributing schedules in your department boxes as soon as available. Your opinion matters! The voices of the College of Liberal Arts need to be heard.
