V(C). Planned Program (Situation and Scope)

1. Situation and priorities

Of the nearly 100,000 youth who could benefit from positive youth development programming, currently only about 15% of that target population of youth are served by the program. The number of agent/field faculty is small in contrast to the distances between communities. Transportation off the limited road system requires expensive air or limited sea access. Such geographic extremes, combined with a high latitude climate, restrict what programs can be offered. Alaska is also facing increased urbanization and rural outmigration. Military deployment continues to be a major source of stress on a significant percentage of families. Without an equivalent to county agents, we will continue to develop partnerships with Native corporations, nonprofit agencies, and local, regional and state organizations involved in youth programming to strengthen ownership in programming. Increased administrative function support has improved our ability to reach underserved and minority population activities. The university system strongly supports workforce development, with attention to youth, as a priority in outreach. The number of youth who participate in 4-H programming drops off in adolescence.

2. Scope of the Program

- In-State Extension

V(D). Planned Program (Assumptions and Goals)

1. Assumptions made for the Program

When environments include sustained opportunities for youth to gain a sense of belonging, independence, mastery and generosity, youth make positive life choices. Their contribution in leadership and civic engagement productively influence their communities and their futures. Positive youth development relies on science-based program competencies that promote workforce development and personal goal attainment through long-term, caring interactions with mentors, peer support and experiential learning. Improvements in risk management and volunteer management for volunteer leaders will continue to enhance these youth assets. Increasing membership or involvement in programs has to incorporate new types of club and program activities that meet the relevant needs of single-head of household families, various learning styles and a wide range of socioeconomic strata in the state's diverse populations.

2. Ultimate goal(s) of this Program

Borrowing from the vision of 4-H, Alaska youth will be productive citizens and catalysts for positive change to meet the needs of a diverse and changing society. 4-H youth development will be a highly respected resource recognized by the state as a leader in creating a sense of belonging, mastery, independence and generosity through club and project programming to any community with a desire to build youth assets.
