allowing work to begin on the $5 million project. "The Alaska Gallery is part of our home. We make this donation to help create exhibits that protect the fragile and priceless objects on display," the couple said. The completed Peggy Shumaker and Joe Usibelli Gallery of Alaska will have hands-on interactive elements and modern displays. Shumaker and Usibelli were recipients of the 2013 Association of Fundraising Professionals Eugene R. Wilson Outstanding Philanthropist of the Year award. Shumaker was also named the 2014 Rasmuson Foundation Distinguished Artist, recognizing her creative excellence and stature.

Celebrating alumni and students

Seven UAF alumni were recognized at the 2014 Distinguished Alumnus Awards dinner on Sept. 26 at the Fairbanks Princess Riverside Lodge during the Nanook Rendezvous alumni weekend. Reunion events included the chancellor's annual convocation, campus tours and the opening of the time capsule from 1962. The newly remodeled Alumni Lounge in Constitution Hall was completed in time for reunion weekend. In December, Kate Ripley, director of UA public affairs, will join the newly integrated Office of Development and Alumni Relations as director of alumni relations and executive director of the UAF Alumni Association. The university is proud to have more than 31,000 alumni in Alaska and throughout the world.

Douglas Island Pink and Chum funds new endowment

Fisheries research has always been an integral part of the mission and operation of Douglas Island Pink and Chum. The company, which operates the Macaulay Salmon Hatchery in Juneau, recently gave the University of Alaska Fairbanks School of Fisheries and Ocean Sciences $1,075,000 to support the endowment it created a year earlier. The endowment, called the Ladd Macaulay Fisheries Research Endowed Fellowship, is in memory of hatchery founder Ladd Macaulay. The endowment will support graduate level research as a means to better understand fisheries enhancement and management. Professor Keith Criddle, SFOS Fisheries Division Director and Chancellor Brian Rogers joined with fellowship recipient Casey McConnell (left) and Alex Wertheimer, DIPAC Board Member, at the check presentation on September 18, 2014.

A generous donation of $869,471 from George Gordon, '62, and Linda Dahl Gordon, '65, has established the George E. and Linda C. Dahl Gordon Rifle Team Endowment, to provide scholarship support for qualified students on the University of Alaska Fairbanks rifle team. The Gordons are both former UAF rifle team members and set up the scholarship to provide maximum benefit to the nationally recognized team. "The unbelievable support we get from all of our donors is what makes it possible for us to have the ongoing success we have been able to maintain over the years," said Dan Jordan, head coach of the UAF rifle team. The rifle team is currently ranked third in the nation. The program has earned 10 NCAA National Championships in its long and distinguished history.

Phonathon raises support for UAF

This semester marks the fifth year of the UAF phonathon program and the first held in the Alumni Lounge in historic Constitution Hall. The fall program runs from Oct. 19 to Dec. 4, and student callers are asking alumni and friends for their unrestricted support. Since the fall of 2010, UAF phonathons have raised more than $250,000 from nearly 1,800 pledges. The phonathon is on track to surpass its goal of $45,000. Thank you to all those who support UAF through the program.
