Intended Learning Outcomes
Biological Sciences PhD Degree

University of Alaska Fairbanks, Department of Biology & Wildlife

1. Students entering the PhD program should have an adequate knowledge of biological principles.

2. Students will be able to communicate scientific principles and ideas in oral and written form.

3. Students will be familiar with the general state of knowledge in their chosen field of scientific endeavor.

4. Students will make substantial original contributions to scientific knowledge in their field.

5. Students will obtain employment in their chosen field, continue on to further education, or otherwise meet personal objectives for completing the degree.