A. CHANGE IN DEGREE REQUIREMENTS: (Brief statement of program/degree changes and objectives)

The Justice Department is changing its undergraduate program to add an emphasis upon restorative justice and dispute resolution practices. In doing so the Department is creating six new courses, one (JUST 201) which will be required of all Justice majors and the remainder serving as electives for the major. With the additional electives, Justice majors now have an ample pool of electives from which to choose and the Department no longer needs to rely upon courses from other disciplines to provide a variety of elective for Justice majors. Consequently, the Department wishes to drop the six credits of courses from ANTH, COMM, HUMS, PSY and SOC. This change will better prepare Justice students for positions in Justice agencies.

Additionally, the proposed change removes JUST 460 from the list of required Justice courses. The Department is proposing the course be eliminated. To accommodate the addition of a restorative justice emphasis, the Department is eliminating a few courses that are of less importance to the direction the Justice program is pursuing.

D. ESTIMATED IMPACT

WHAT IMPACT, IF ANY, WILL THIS HAVE ON BUDGET, FACILITIES/SPACE, FACULTY, ETC.

Minimal if any. To facilitate the delivery of the new restorative justice/dispute resolution courses, the Department proposes to eliminate four existing Justice courses, and will instruct at least two of the new courses as online courses. Thus there should be no impact upon space or facilities.

E. IMPACTS ON PROGRAMS/DEPTS:

What programs/departments will be affected by this proposed action?
Include information on the Programs/Departments contacted (e.g., email, memo)

The elimination of the six-credit option for courses in ANTH, COMM, HUMS, PSY and SOC might reduce the enrollments for the courses in those disciplines but the reduction should be insignificant.
F. IF MAJOR CHANGE - ASSESSMENT OF THE PROGRAM:

The Department is in the process of changing its student learning outcomes assessment process for the B.A. degree, and will implement a testing process to measure student learning outcomes. For each of the required Justice courses (110, 125, 201, 222, 251, 300, 340 and 358), five objective questions will be created and used in an exam to be administered in the first week of all JUST 110 classes, and again administered during the last week of all JUST 358 classes; essentially implementing a pre- and post-testing practice to demonstrate whether students are obtaining and retaining the core Justice concepts.

JUSTIFICATION FOR ACTION REQUESTED

The purpose of the department and campus-wide curriculum committees is to scrutinize program/degree change applications to make sure that the quality of UAF education is not lowered as a result of the proposed change. Please address this in your response. This section needs to be self-explanatory. If you drop a course, is it because the material is covered elsewhere? Use as much space as needed to fully justify the proposed change and explain what has been done to ensure that the quality of the program is not compromised as a result.

The elimination of the six-credit option of courses from other disciplines is intended to strengthen the degrees focus on issues that are critical to Justice professionals. Restorative justice has been a growing focus in the Justice professions for the last decade and the creation of a curriculum that directs students to a similar focus is beneficial for the students, and the Justice agencies within the state. In the past the small number of Justice faculty necessitated that the Department supplement Justice courses with courses from somewhat related disciplines. With an increase in Justice faculty, there is no longer the need to rely upon courses from other disciplines to provide Justice majors with electives for the major.

The Department is proposing to change its B.A. curriculum to include two primary foci: one in restorative justice and dispute resolution; and one in law enforcement. JUST 460 served as a capstone course for a broad and general Justice degree. With the refining of the foci for the program, JUST 460 is no longer a necessary course for the program.
