   YES/NO

   Stacked course applications are reviewed by the (Undergraduate) Curricular Review Committee and by the Graduate Academic and Advising Committee. Creating two different syllabi-undergraduate and graduate versions—will help emphasize the different qualities of what are supposed to be two different courses. The committees will determine: 1) whether the two versions are sufficiently different (i.e. is there undergraduate and graduate level content being offered); 2) are undergraduates being overtaxed? 3) are graduate students being undertaxed? In this context, the committees are looking out for the interests of the students taking the course. Typically, if either committee has qualms, they both do. 20. IMPACTS ON PROGRAMS/DEPTS
   What programs/departments will be affected by this proposed action?
   Include information on the Programs/Departments contacted (e.g., email, memo)
   This course does not directly impact other departments or disciplines. Justice faculty have spoken with faculty in Psychology, Social Work and Communications, and no concerns were voiced by those faculty members. The implementation of the course allows the Justice Department to better utilize the expertise of its faculty members. This course will positively impact the Justice Department because it augments the proposed minor in Dispute Resolution also housed in the Justice Department.

21. POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE IMPACTS
   Please specify positive and negative impacts on other courses, programs and departments resulting from the proposed action.
   The Justice Department does not perceive this course as negatively impacting any departments or programs. The course is part of curriculum changes being proposed for the Bachelor of Arts in Justice, and a proposed curriculum for a new minor in Dispute Resolution systems. The course and the proposed minor are likely to be beneficial for Social Work, Psychology and Sociology majors.
   The course, proposed minor and curriculum changes to the Justice major reflect the Department's effort to create a restorative justice emphasis in its undergraduate program. Restorative Justice has been adopted as the operational paradigm for Alaska’s Division of Juvenile Justice, and consequently, the Department believes that it is important to adopt a restorative justice emphasis in its undergraduate and minor programs.

JUSTIFICATION FOR ACTION REQUESTED
The purpose of the department and campus-wide curriculum committees is to scrutinize course change and new course applications to make sure that the quality of UAF education is not lowered as a result of the proposed change. Please address this in your response. This section needs to be self-explanatory. Use as much space as needed to fully justify the proposed course.

The course will represent one of the elective choices in the proposed new Minor in Dispute Resolution. The course will focus on counseling, rehabilitative and restorative issues with offenders. The Justice program is evolving to address restorative issues in the criminal justice field, and Justice 320, Correctional Counseling, meets the need to address these issues with the context of corrections.

This supports course and referenced degree changes are consistent with the UAF strategic plan in that this change enhances the University’s ability to educate students, serve diverse communities, prepare students for the workforce, and enhance research opportunities.

Student Grading/Evaluation

(3) Exams @ 100 Pts. Each
(5) Chapter Reviews at 20 Pts. Each
Class Participation @ 100 Pts.

Total Points: 500 Pts.

Grading Scale:

450-500 Pts. = A
400-449 Pts. = B
350-399 Pts. = C
300-349 Pts. = D
< 300 Pts. = F

INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS:

Class participation: As you will note, a heavy emphasis has been placed (100 pts.) on class participation. Attendance is vital if you have the expectation of garnering all of the available participation points. During the course of the semester students will have plenty of opportunity to participate in structured activities, role plays, pairing up with fellow students to work on in-class exercises, etc. Student participation is really the life-blood of the course; I highly encourage you to do so. Each class period will consist of lecture time and review of pertinent course materials, followed by hands-on exercises and scenarios to illustrate the therapeutic concepts in working with clients. After each exercise, the instructor will provide feedback to students and evaluation of their therapeutic work.

Chapter Reviews: Each student will complete a total of (5) chapter reviews from the text. This will include summarizing each chapter, and writing an analysis of each. The analysis is an application of what you have learned from the chapter, to include a synthesis of what you may already know about counseling or the topic of the chapter, along with an integration of your own ideas regarding a career in correctional counseling. The focus of the reviews should go beyond a mere regurgitation of the chapter. The length of the reviews may vary, but each should be no less than (3) pages, double-spaced. The course schedule will reflect due dates and the selected chapters for review.
Exams: There will be a total of (3) exams which will be a combination of multiple choice and essay. A review will be provided prior to each exam. The exam dates are posted in the course schedule and will normally occur on Thursdays. Make-up exams will be allowed with prior notification to the instructor.

Plagiarism and academic dishonesty will not be tolerated, and is subject to disciplinary action per the Student Code of Conduct, Board of Regents policy 09.02.01 (noted on p. 51 2011-12 UAF Catalog).
