Risk Assessments and Rights for the Accused with guest speaker Public Defender Dustin Howie

Join us for an insightful discussion on how gender influences judicial decision-making before, during and after criminal trials. Public Defender Howie will discuss his experiences in litigating criminal cases and what issues in the criminal justice system arise for women and LGBTQ+ people based on his six years of experience as a trial and appellate attorney. Attorney Howie's talk will also cover issues related to criminal responsibility, sentencing, societal expectations, and the intersection of gender with race and class. Don't miss this opportunity to engage in a critical conversation with an experienced trial attorney discussing criminal justice and gender!
