Doctoral

Roger William Kaye	Ph.D.	Wilderness Studies: Interdisciplinary Program
--------------------	-------	--

B.A., University of Minnesota, 1974

Thesis: The Campaign to Establish a Last Great Wilderness: The Arctic National Wildlife Range

This dissertation explores the historic, cultural, philosophical, and scientific underpinnings of the campaign to establish the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge. It focuses upon the beliefs and values, the ideas and idealism that inspired leaders of the effort, captured the public imagination, and galvanized the political support necessary to overcome powerful opposition.

Major Professor: Dr. James N. Gladden

Ben A. Potter	Ph.D.	Anthropology

B.A., University of Central Florida, 1995
M.A., University of Alaska Fairbanks, 1997

Thesis: Site Structure and Organization in Central Alaska: Archaeological Investigations at Gerstle River

This dissertation presents a multi-dimensional analysis of site structure and organization at Gerstle River, a multi-component stratified site in the Tanana Basin, central Alaska. The primary objective is to investigate patterning among the lithics, fauna, features and stratigraphy. The data are explored in terms of technological and spatial organization.

Major Professor: Dr. Craig Gerlach

Steven Eric Ronald Smyth	Ph.D.	Northern Studies: Interdisciplinary Program
--------------------------	-------	---

B.A., Notre Dame University of Nelson (Canada), 1977
M.A., Carleton University (Canada), 1978

Thesis: Constitutional Change in the Circumpolar Periphery: A Comparative Case Study

This dissertation probes the origins of intercultural conflict and regional disparity in the circumpolar North. The dissertation examines the policies of internal colonialism of the governments of Denmark, the United States and Canada towards Alaska, Greenland and the Yukon, and discusses how those policies have shaped inter-cultural relations and contributed to regional disparities.

Major Professor: Dr. Gerald A. McBeath
