Ph.D. Educational Leadership: Interdisciplinary Program

B.A., University of Pennsylvania, 1983. M.Ed., University of Alaska Fairbanks, 1994

Thesis: A Description of the Relationship Between Process Management and the Quality Schools Model in Three Rural Alaska School Districts

This thesis describes the role of process management in the implementation of the Quality Schools Model of educational reform in three rural Alaska school districts.

The study suggests that although process management is valued, it is not fully in practice and has an indirect effect on the districts' results.

Ph.D. Business Strategies and Educational Leadership: Interdisciplinary Program

B.S., Oregon State University, 1976. M.Ed., University of Puget Sound, 1997

Thesis: The Quality Schools Model of Education Reform: A Description of Knowledge Management Beliefs and Practices Using Baldrige in Education Criteria

This study suggested ambivalence and transfer difficulty in the implementation of the Quality Schools Model of education reform, with significant large differences between beliefs and practice for teachers and administrators. A structural model showed knowledge management practices had a direct or indirect effect on all other Baldrige factors except staff focus.

Ph.D. Educational Leadership and Policy: Interdisciplinary Program

B.S., University of Montana - Western, 1986. M.S., Nova Southeastern University (Florida), 1992

Thesis: A Description of Baldrige in Education Leadership Concepts within the Alaska Quality Schools Model of Education

This research examines the Quality Schools Model in three rural Alaska school districts. It reviews leadership practices that transform hierarchical leadership into shared leadership with ownership throughout. Results show the districts overcoming a lack of identified shared values, shared leadership and ownership.

Ph.D. Education Leadership and Policy: Interdisciplinary Program

B.S., Pennsylvania State University, 1990. M.S., Western Maryland College, 1993

Thesis: The Quality Schools Model of Education Reform: A Description of Staff Focus Beliefs and Practices Using Baldrige in Education Criteria

This thesis describes the importance and practice of staff learning and motivation in three rural Alaska school districts that have implemented the Quality Schools Model. The study's findings indicated that school staff and community members perceived staff learning, in particular, as important for successful implementation of the model.
