The University of Alaska Fairbanks is accredited by the Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities.

UAF is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and educational institution.

FY14 at a Glance

The University of Alaska Fairbanks is accredited by the Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities.

UAF is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and educational institution.

Revenues

UAF revenues from all sources totaled $458M.

- Tuition & Fees: $41M (9%)
- UA Receipts: $43M (9%)
- Other: $64M (14%)
- Federal Receipts: $87M (19%)
- ARRA: $15M (3%)
- ICR: $23M (5%) (III)

UAF revenues from all sources totaled $458M.

Federal research funding decreased by 2% in FY14. This trend is projected to continue in FY15 as a result of the federal budget climate.

Tuition and fees historically account for about 9% of the budget. The FY14 tuition rate increase was the second lowest in recent history.

As the state budget climate becomes increasingly tight, UAF expects General Fund support to decrease in FY16+. In FY15 UAF's General Fund support was reduced by $8M.

In spring 2014, UAF employed 2,157 faculty, researchers, program and administrative staff (full time equivalency). This number is decreasing as UAF responds to budget reductions.

Expenditures

UAF spent $458M on all activities, including academic programs, research, service, capital projects, and operations.

- Salaries & Benefits: $263M (57%)
- Contractual Services: $86M (19%)
- Commodities: $36M (8%)
- Land/Buildings: $20M (4%)
- Other: $15M (3%)
- Travel: $13M (3%)
- Student Aid: $15M (3%)
- Equipment: $9M (2%)

UAF's budget is spent in direct support of its mission to integrate teaching, research, and public service; these top categories account for 64% of expenditures.

UAF's travel budget was reduced in FY15 through the legislative process. 54% of UAF travel is for research projects or restricted programs.

Looking Ahead

The State will cut UA funding for the second year in FY16. Tuition and research awards will not fully offset rising costs, leaving UAF with a budget gap of $14-$17M, assuming no further reductions. UAF may be smaller in future years, but is prepared to make strategic investment choices to maintain a high-quality focus on research, instruction and service.

- FY15 GAP: $14M
- FY16 GAP: $14-$17M
- $8M Reductions: $6M Rising Costs, $2M FY15
- $7.5M Rising Costs: $5M FY16, $2.5M FY15

UAF may be smaller in future years, but is prepared to make strategic investment choices to maintain a high-quality focus on research, instruction and service.

The University of Alaska Fairbanks is accredited by the Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities. UAF is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer and educational institution.