

The UAF Robert G. White Large Animal Research Station Charitable Contribution Form

UAF's Large Animal Research Station is one of the hidden jewels of Fairbanks. Locals and visitors come year-round to view the muskoxen and reindeer that we tend for nutritional, physiological and behavioral research. Please help us continue to provide this unique opportunity.

As you know, the University of Alaska's budget has been shrinking. Here at LARS, we have tightened our belts even while striving to improve our facility and program. We want to avoid a reduction in the herd and to maintain the staff needed to provide these animals with the best possible care. We are asking for your help!

Sponsor Wall

Hardluck Studios will professionally paint a name of your choosing on a preserved piece of weathered siding from an original barn on the Yankovich Road property. The name can recognize a person, business, family, etc. (For business recognition, only the business name may be displayed, no call to action may be displayed.) The signs are $435 and will be displayed near the entrance and summer gift shop at LARS.

The sign cost is $135, and we ask for an additional $300 donation to benefit the areas of greatest need at LARS. We kindly ask you to renew your generous support on an annual basis ($300) to maintain your recognition.

Net proceeds to benefit the LARS Endowment – thank you!

Roger Black, owner of Hardluck Studios in nearby Goldstream Valley, has begun building a sculptural stand to hold 100 signs. The stand should be finished by the end of August 2017. Please drop by and check out the progress.
