D. ESTIMATED IMPACT

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>WHAT IMPACT, IF ANY, WILL THIS HAVE ON BUDGET, FACILITIES/SPACE, FACULTY, ETC.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>ED 682</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The School of Education’s Graduate Department revised the Cross-Cultural Education concentration and request to add this course to the list of required courses for the concentration. This course is still an elective course for other programs, and thus will provide another course option for our M.Ed. students and other UAF and UA graduate students to enroll in. In February 2012, SOE submitted a request to Alaska’s Department of Education so the course could be added to the approved Multicultural Education course offerings. It is now approved.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

The budget will not be impacted since this course will become a part of an existing faculty member’s workload. The SOE faculty workloads will be adjusted to allow this course offering.

No impact on facilities and space is perceived since classrooms have been available when the course was offered in spring 2011 as ED 691 and spring 2012 as ED 693. M. Ed. classes are taught on campus and via distance delivery. A classroom with audio conference and/or videoconference capabilities is necessary. The School of Education is committed to “cultural responsive” education (SOE mission), which this course addresses.

ED 620
No impact, except that it may change the number of students in spring electives in other programs simply because now it is required for L & L students. ED 620, like ED 682, is also approved by the Alaska Department of Education and Early Development (DEED) as a Multicultural Course with Alaska Focus. So as a required course, it will be doing “double duty,” fulfilling two requirements, that of the program and that of the Multicultural Course. This may affect the enrollment in other Multicultural elective courses approved by DEED. However, the numbers of candidates in this Language and Literacy program are currently low enough that the effects will be slight.

No impact on facilities and space. ED 620 has been taught every spring as an elective since 2000 by the same faculty member.

EDSC 642 and EDSE 643
There will be no impact to space, budget or faculty. Students have been informally meeting during the fall semester already. This change formalizes the current instructional model. Changing EDSC 642 to a 1 credit fall class and adding EDSC 643 as a 2 credit spring class.
E. IMPACTS ON PROGRAMS/DEPTS:

What programs/departments will be affected by this proposed action? Include information on the Programs/Departments contacted (e.g., email, memo)

ED 682: The School of Education’s graduate department. Anjela Wong, Ph.D., Assistant Professor, nawong@alaska.edu, 907-474-5516. Dr. Beth Leonard from Cross-cultural Studies has been notified, since many of the electives for this program are cross-listed with ED. She agrees with the change to make ED 682 a required course for the Cross-cultural Education M.Ed.

ED 620: Programs potentially affected include LING and Cross-cultural Studies (both CLA). However, Dr. Hogan e-mailed all possibly affected parties and received no protest for this change. There is a bit of history for the vision of the L & L program because at one time we were hoping to make it an ESL/ELL state-approved program leading to a state endorsement. However, we do not have the faculty or resources to make that happen. Since that idea has been abandoned, adding ED 620 as a required class, and as currently envisioned, is now no problem for CLA faculty. (See attached e-mail.)

EDSC 642/643: M.Ed. in Secondary Education and Secondary Post-Baccalaureate Licensure Program. This change corresponds with a change submitted by the Secondary Post-Bac. Program.

F. IF MAJOR CHANGE - ASSESSMENT OF THE PROGRAM:

Description of the student learning outcomes assessment process,

The School of Education Graduate Program assessment system is approved by regional (Northwest) and national (NCATE) accreditors.

JUSTIFICATION FOR ACTION REQUESTED

The purpose of the department and campus-wide curriculum committees is to scrutinize program/degree change applications to make sure that the quality of UAF education is not lowered as a result of the proposed change. Please address this in your response. This section needs to be self-explanatory. If you drop a course, is it because the material is covered elsewhere? Use as much space as needed to fully justify the proposed change and explain what has been done to ensure that the quality of the program is not compromised as a result.

ED 682

Alaska’s K-12 schools have been experiencing an increase in Students of Color as well as other diverse student population. For instance, in Alaska, between 1990 and 2008, the number of children of immigrants increased by 53% (Fortuny, 2010). Addressing issues of equity, diversity, race, class, gender, and other social identities has become an important issue facing educators and policymakers state and nationwide. Additionally, the School of Education’s mission is to “prepare professional educators who are culturally responsive, effective practitioners for Alaska’s Schools.” The course will assist in addressing the School’s mission.

The purpose of this course is to rethink our understanding of “Multicultural Education” and offer a more robust and critical definition of multicultural education that we often see being utilized. For instance, some educators and teacher educators use the singular intent of promoting heroes and holidays and “celebrating” individual differences. This course is “an attempt to reclaim multicultural education as part of a larger, more serious struggle for social justice, a struggle that recognizes the need to fight against systematic racism, colonization, and cultural oppression that takes place through our schools” (Au, 2009, p. 3).

The course goals:

- To examine the intellectual and socio-political perspectives of multiculturalism and multicultural education;
- To examine the connections between and among culture (e.g., race/class/gender) and other notions of difference, education and schooling;
- To examine possibilities for transformation of schooling (and society) through cultural approaches to education; and
- To make connections between theoretical/conceptual propositions and practices and/or everyday lives and experiences.

The course was first offered in spring 2011 as ED 691: Contemporary Issues in Education; however, after some discussion with the SOE Graduate faculty, the course does not align with ED 691’s course description and goals. Then a special topics course request was submitted to and approved by the University for spring 2012. The course is now a permanent elective course option for our graduate students at UAF.
ED 620
ED 620 is the only course in the L & L program that offers the foundational theoretical knowledge on literacy studies, and should be required as a kind of pro-seminar or foundational course for this degree. It has been continually revised since 2000, and reflects widening definitions of literacy including visual, digital, mediated, and multimodal literacies.

Furthermore, by making ED 620 required, we can fulfill our NCATE (accreditors) mandate to have a key assignment for each required course taught by a faculty member from the SOE. Currently, the faculty in this strand teaching content are from LING, and they do not necessarily do the critical assignments the way NCATE requires. Also, they can change instructors and we have no control over how they teach and assess. This also starts bordering on academic freedom issues - as we are not always comfortable asking faculty from other deptsto do things the way we need them to be done for NCATE. It is also harder for us to keep track of the assessment “data” (per NCATE) that faculty from CLA (are supposed to) generate.

Thus, by making ED 620 a required course, we can show our accreditors that we our keeping track of a key assignment in the content area (literacy) by a tenured faculty member in Education who know how NCATE wants things to be done. We hope this will give stability to the assessment program in SOE, since NCATE only requires required classes to have “key assignments.” Additionally, it will help with advising in this strand since the students will have to take a required course with Dr. Hogan, who resides in the SOE. Since she is currently the only L & L professor left in SOE, it is imperative that the students have at least one class with her since she will probably wind up chairing their committees.

ED 669 will now be an elective because of its historically low enrollment. For the past few years, we have been advising the ED 669 students into ED 620 and canceling ED 669. Thus, we have been doing formal substitutions for L & L students, swapping out ED 669 for ED 620. With ED 620 now required, we will no longer have to do the substitutions.

EDSE 642/643
Currently students meet informally with instructor during fall semester to begin development of their portfolios and attain initial technological skills necessary to effectively use a variety of modes in their 712 classrooms. The requested change to 642 and addition of 643 seeks to formalize the current instructional model.

Making ED 620 a required course for the Language and Literacy M.Ed. strand

Hello all possible interested parties,

I would like to make my course ED 620 a required course for the L & L strand in our SOE M.Ed. I am doing this because 1. ED 620 offers foundational theoretical work in the area of literacy studies and has examples from K12 schooling. Thus, it serves as a kind of prosemear. 2. It expands the notion of literacy to multi-modal forms, including semiotics, media literacy, visual literacy, spoken-word poetry etc. 3. I am the only full-time L & L person left in SOE and I want students in this strand to have one class with me so I get to know them and their work - this helps with advising and leading the program, as well as accreditation work. 4. This course will have a "critical assignment" for which we can develop a rubric and keep track of for NCATE (accrediter). Currently, we have no such critical assignment housed in SOE for L & L.

Below is what the program currently looks like. I believe ED 669 will stay a required class but be renamed and focus on ELL issues - Patrick can chime in about that. I am also thinking about adding a 600-elective in Media Literacy/Youth and Popular Culture in the future to make this a well-rounded and up-to-date degree. (Remember we have NO K-12 ESL/ELL faculty on staff, and no reading specialist, so we cannot do the ELL endorsement as talked about in previous years. The SOE also has no plans to hire such a person - as far as I know there is no tenure line there since the reading endorsement was cancelled.)

With the change, there would still be two electives because ED 620 would count as a cross-cultural course. Ray, this means your CCS course enrollment could be negatively affected.

Please let me know right away if you have any issues or concerns about this catalog change. If there seems to be a lot of discussion, I will call a meeting and we can talk about it in person. If you do not respond I will assume you are OK with it. Catalog changes are due Oct 4 but we have to send them through SOE approval way before then. So please do rsvp as soon as you can.

Thanks everyone,

Maureen

Hi Maureen,

I am OK with your proposal. I've recommended 620 to some of our students, so I don't see the change as having a negative impact on CCS enrollments. The more the merrier, regardless of department . . .

Thanks, Ray! We are also looking to make changes to the cross-cultural M.Ed. degree which is currently a lot of electives and has low enrollment. Anjela Wong will be working on that this semester, but we will make sure your department is in the loop. We probably should have at least a few content-area classes with key assignments and rubrics that we can use for accreditation.
