CREDITS (including credit distribution)

ADD A STACKED LEVEL (400/600)
Include syllabi.

How will the two course levels differ from each other? How will each be taught at the appropriate level?

Stacked course applications are reviewed by the (Undergraduate) Curricular Review Committee and by the Graduate Academic and Advising Committee. Creating two different syllabi—undergraduate and graduate versions—will help emphasize the different qualities of what are supposed to be two different courses. The committees will determine: 1) whether the two versions are sufficiently different (i.e., is there undergraduate and graduate level content being offered); 2) are undergraduates being overtaxed? 3) are graduate students being undertaxed? In this context, the committees are looking out for the interests of the students taking the course. Typically, if either committee has qualms, they both do. More info online—see URL at top of this page.

ADD NEW CROSS-LISTING

Have you contacted the library collection development officer (kljensen@alaska.edu, 474-6695) with regard to the adequacy of library/media collections, equipment, and services available for the proposed course? If so, give date of contact and resolution. If not, explain why not.

Please specify positive and negative impacts on other courses, programs and departments resulting from the proposed action.

13. JUSTIFICATION FOR ACTION REQUESTED

The purpose of the department and campus-wide curriculum committees is to scrutinize course change and new course applications to make sure that the quality of UAF education is not lowered as a result of the proposed change. Please address this in your response. This section needs to be self-explanatory. If you ask for a change in # of credits, explain why; are you increasing the amount of material covered in the class? If you drop a prerequisite, is it because the material is covered elsewhere? If course is changing to stacked (400/600), explain higher level of effort and performance required on part of students earning graduate credit. Use as much space as needed to fully justify the proposed change and explain what has been done to ensure that the quality of the course is not compromised as a result.

This course was misnumbered at the outset, and I’ve been meaning to change it for some time. It is the introductory course to the political science subfield of international relations. Thus, it needs to be at the 200 level, not 300 level.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is an introduction to the key theories, terms, issues, debates, and challenges in the field of international relations. It provides students with a comprehensive understanding of the dynamic interactions that take place between important actors in the international system, such as states, organizations, and groups. The course is broken down into four sections: 1) introduction to international relations, 2) international security, 3) international political economy, and 4) international law and organization. Upon completion of this course, students should be able to apply their acquired knowledge to better understand global events and identify global political patterns.

COURSE ASSIGNMENTS

Reading, Preparation, and Participation (60 points)
You must come to class prepared to contribute to discussions and talk about assigned readings. The effectiveness of the course is determined largely by how well you engage the reading material, assess key concepts, and participate. Your participation grade will be calculated by how much and how well you contribute to class discussions. The use of cell phones and other electronic devices (apart from laptops for note-taking purposes) during class is prohibited and will lower your reading, preparation, and participation grade.

- From time to time, you will be asked in advance to come to class prepared to discuss a current event related to the week’s theme.

Prompt Responses (100 points)
At the beginning of each week, I will post in Blackboard a prompt related to the week’s topic and readings. Simply download the prompt from Blackboard and respond to it with an essay that is at least 500 words. You must print out and turn in your response to me in class on that week’s Friday. You will not submit a prompt response in the weeks when you have an exam. Late responses will not be accepted.

Three Tests (150 points – 50 points each)
After each sub-field section (international security, international political economy, and international law and organization), you will have an exam on class and reading material. There are three tests altogether. Each will consist of a mixture of questions, such as fill in the blank, short answer, and short essay. Make-up tests will not be given.

Final Exam (90 points)
The final exam is a comprehensive take-home exam in essay format. You will have one week to complete it. I will distribute it (with detailed instructions) on Friday, December 11, and it will be due via e-mail on Friday, December 18, by 11:59 P.M. Expect a confirmation e-mail. The exam will cover topics from class, so the readings and lectures will be an invaluable resource to help you complete the final. Late finals will not be accepted.

*For Those Registered for the Honors Section of This Course Only:

Research Paper (50 points)
In addition to the above requirements, you will write a paper describing how each of the three theories (realism, liberalism, and constructivism) explains a conflict or peaceful relationship of your choice. In your paper, you must argue which perspective best explains the conflict and choose a specific level of analysis (individual, domestic, or systemic).

Technical Requirements for the Paper:
* At least ten pages in length (not including cover page or references)
* 12-point font
* Double-spaced
* 1-inch margins
* Include section headers
*Cover page (not included in page requirement)
*References (not included in page requirement)
*Include page numbers (the cover page is NOT page 1 – the first page of your writing is!)

Due Date:
You can turn in the paper at any point during the semester but no later than class on Friday, December 11, 2015.
