

NRM 403, Environmental Decision Making Course Syllabus, Fall Semester 2022 9:45-11:15 AM Tuesdays & Thursdays (3 Cr)

David Valentine, Professor of Forest Soils
309 O'Neill Building, 474-7614, dvalentine@alaska.edu

F2F: Reichardt Building room 204

Zoom: <https://alaska.zoom.us/j/86871457135>

Office Hours: Generally, I plan to be available in my office Tuesdays and Thursdays 11:30 - 1:00, or by appointment. To stem the spread of COVID-19, my door will likely be closed, so please knock. I am also available to meet virtually (Zoom, telephone, etc.).

Course goal: To introduce students to an approach and range of tools useful to making good environmental and natural resource management decisions in the face of complexity, uncertainty, and competing values, as well as to enhance students' critical thinking skills. By the end of this course, you should be able to:

- Articulate and apply the foundations (science, economics, ethics/values, and policy) upon which natural resource management decisions are made.
- Develop and apply critical thinking skills when evaluating information and be able to distinguish between fact, theory, and opinion.
- Independently evaluate various sources of information for reliability, and use reliable sources of information to support positions in natural resource issues.
- Deliver clear analysis and persuasive presentations, both orally and in writing.
- Discuss and use a variety of techniques employed by resource managers in decision-making.
- Gain perspective ("big picture" sense) on perspectives ("points of view" sense).

Textbook: Gregory, R., Failing, L., Harstone, M., Long, G., Mcdaniels, T., and Ohlson, D. (2012), Structured Decision Making, Wiley Global Research (STMS). Other required readings will be assigned and made available via Canvas (<https://canvas.alaska.edu>)

Prerequisites: NRM 101 or permission of instructor.

NRM 403 is an upper division, capstone class. The emphasis is on discussion and active learning, not lecture and passive learning. Class participation is a substantial portion of your final grade, and depends on both your live presence in the Zoom class and the quality of your participation. More than two unexcused absences will reduce your class participation grade, even if you watch the recordings later. Participation quality depends on active participation in discussions, thoughtful comments, and good questions. Effort counts here. We will do all we can to provide the atmosphere necessary for fun and challenging discussions.

NRM 403 meets Oral- and Writing-intensive requirements, reflecting our emphasis on clarity of communication. Although some new information will be presented, the emphasis will be on improving how you synthesize and work with information you already have, e.g., from previous courses.

Technology Policy: You may use your laptop/tablet/phone to do work relevant to the course, as long as others do not find it distracting.

Canvas: This course will make extensive use of Canvas (<https://canvas.alaska.edu>) for making class notes and reading materials available, submitting assignments, coordinating activities with project group members, retrieving grades, and updating your course progress. Please check it regularly for announcements and updates. In addition, we occasionally will need to contact you between class periods via Canvas e-mail. If you prefer to use a different e-mail address, you will need to set up e-mail forwarding.

Assignment submission: All assignments MUST be turned in using Canvas's assignment submission tool. DO NOT use any other means of submission (e.g., e-mail). Assignments received by email will receive the response that the assignment must be handed in on Canvas. Late assignments will be penalized 10% of the assignment value per day, up to a maximum of 50%. We are reasonably proficient with various tools to detect plagiarism, which is a serious violation of the UAF honor code that merits a failing grade.

Issues: The instructors and invited guests will present current, controversial natural resource issues and cases that will highlight the foundations of decision-making in natural resources management. The issues are complex, with "good" answers, "bad" answers, but no "right" answers. We encourage you to present your perspective energetically and rationally while challenging (respectfully) those you disagree with (including ours). We welcome (and occasionally offer) "devil's advocate" arguments as a way to challenge assumptions and strengthen arguments. Your grade does not depend on what conclusions you reach, but rather on how you reach those conclusions.

Grading: Letter grades will be assigned based on the fraction of total points obtained in the class: 90-100 = A, etc. I will assign + or – modifiers for scores within 2 points of the letter grade cutoffs. All grades and feedback for assignments will be provided via the gradebook feature on Canvas.

Syllabus Addendum (Revised 8/22/2022)

COVID-19 statement: Students should keep up-to-date on the university's policies, practices, and mandates related to COVID-19 by regularly checking this website:

<https://sites.google.com/alaska.edu/coronavirus/uaf?authuser=0>

Further, students are expected to adhere to the university's policies, practices, and mandates and are subject to disciplinary actions if they do not comply.

Student protections statement: UAF embraces and grows a culture of respect, diversity, inclusion, and caring. Students at this university are protected against sexual harassment and discrimination (Title IX). Faculty members are designated as responsible employees which means they are required to report sexual misconduct. Graduate teaching assistants do not share the same reporting obligations. For more information on your rights as a student and the resources available to you to resolve problems, please go to the following site: <https://catalog.uaf.edu/academics-regulations/students-rights-responsibilities/>.

Disability services statement: I will work with the Office of Disability Services to provide reasonable accommodation to students with disabilities.

ASUAF advocacy statement: The Associated Students of the University of Alaska Fairbanks, the student government of UAF, offers advocacy services to students who feel they are facing issues with staff, faculty, and/or other students specifically if these issues are hindering the ability of the student to succeed in their academics or go about their lives at the university. Students who wish to utilize these services can contact the Student Advocacy Director by visiting the ASUAF office or emailing asuaf.office@alaska.edu.
