

Tuesday Tips is a new outreach effort by OGCA. The idea behind Tuesday Tips is to convey tips, tricks and other helpful information around the area of research administration. Our goal is to post on (almost every) Tuesdays. If there is something you would like to see covered on Tuesday Tips, email: UAF-GCReATE@alaska.edu. For more Tips visit OGCA website.

Award with Negotiations

What are the most common reasons that an award requires negotiation?

Examples of the most common terms and conditions that require negotiation include, but are not limited to:

- Provisions that prohibit publication of results of the project
- Provisions that require us to assign copyright ownership
- Provisions that do not allow the University to own the data from the project
- Provisions that deal with indemnity for the project
- Provisions that deal with confidentiality
- Provisions that are not consistent with University policies or procedures
- Provisions that are inconsistent with government regulations
- Awards that include non-standard patent and/or licensing terms
- Awards that fail to include all previously agreed upon elements
- Provisions that impose Export Controls
- Provisions that impose the Federal Information Security Management Act (FISMA),
- Information Security (IT Security), or Privacy Act
