Tuesday Tips is a new outreach effort by OGCA. The idea behind Tuesday Tips is to convey tips, tricks and other helpful information around the area of research administration. Our goal is to post on (almost every) Tuesdays. If there is something you would like to see covered on Tuesday Tips, email: UAF-GCReATE@alaska.edu. For more Tips visit OGCA website.

Reference Letters vs. Letters of Support: What’s the Difference?

Reference letters and letters of support provide key information for reviewers and NIH staff. Check out the table below for an overview of when each letter is used, who writes them, and what should be included.

<table>

<tr>
<th>Reference Letters</th>
<th>Letters of Support</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>When are they used?</td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Used in Fellowships, mentored Career Development Awards, and other programs as requested</td>
<td>Used to demonstrate:</td>
</tr>
<tr>

</tr>
<tr>

<td>-Potential or current user of a resource or service proposed in the application</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Who writes them?</td>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Referees should be individuals not directly involved in the application, but who are familiar with the applicant’s qualifications. The sponsor/co-sponsor(s) cannot be counted toward the 3 required references.

Collaborators, key personnel, institution, and other significant contributors to the scientific development or execution of the project.

What should be included?

- Describe qualities and potential of candidate
- Letters can be addressed to “To Whom It May Concern” or “Dear Reviewer”
- Describe the type of support your collaborators will provide to the project
- Summarize the agreements you have in place to support your project

Who submits them?

A referee submits the letters through eRA Commons (no login needed). The letters are maintained separate from the corresponding application.

Applicant organization submits the letters of support as part of the application.

Who sees them?

Only reviewers and select NIH staff

Anyone with access to view the application

Where are the instructions?

- “Application form instructions” on the How to Apply - Application Guide page.
- Special instructions may also be found in funding opportunity announcements and notices (including Notices of Special Interest)

For more information, see the Reference Letters FAQ page. The National Institute of Allergy and Infection Diseases (NIAID) also has helpful advice on Letters of Support.
