20. IMPACTS ON PROGRAMS/DEPTS

What programs/departments will be affected by this proposed action? Include information on the Programs/Departments contacted (e.g., email, memo)

English Department, School of Education Elementary Education Program. School of Education contacted by email and anticipates no negative effect on students of having the existing options of ENGL 271, 272, 273 replaced by the new ENGL F270X (email from Carol Barnhardt, Chair of Elementary Education).

21. POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE IMPACTS

Please specify positive and negative impacts on other courses, programs and departments resulting from the proposed action.

Positive impact: this new course will be a key part of the proposed Minor in Creative Writing. It will be part of a suite of courses designed to restructure the creative writing classes for the Minor, offering students a cross-genre introductory course in fiction, nonfiction and poetry before moving them on to increased specialization in fiction, poetry and creative nonfiction in separate courses at the 300-level (ENGL F375 Intermediate Creative Writing: Fiction, ENGL F376 Intermediate Creative Writing: Poetry, ENGL F377 Intermediate Creative Writing: Nonfiction), then study at the 400-level (ENGL 471 Undergraduate Writers' Workshop; ENGL 471 Topics in Creative Writing; ENGL 488 Dramatic Writing). No negative impacts are anticipated.

JUSTIFICATION FOR ACTION REQUESTED

The purpose of the department and campus-wide curriculum committees is to scrutinize course change and new course applications to make sure that the quality of UAF education is not lowered as a result of the proposed change. Please address this in your response. This section needs to be self-explanatory. Use as much space as needed to fully justify the proposed course.

ENGL F270X is designed to be the introductory course in a suite of new courses for the Minor in Creative Writing that move students from the introductory level to more specialized study. Currently courses are genrespecific at the introductory 200-level (ENGL F271 Creative Writing: Fiction, ENGL F272 Creative Writing: Poetry, and ENGL F273 Creative Nonfiction). Introducing students to all three genres in an initial course will better present them with the basic principles of creative writing, allowing for more specialized study at the intermediate 300-level (ENGL F375 Intermediate Creative Writing: Fiction; ENGL F376 Intermediate Creative Writing Poetry; ENGL F377 Intermediate Creative Writing: Nonfiction).

COURSE DESCRIPTION

From Catalog: ENGL F270 Introduction to Creative Writing: (h)

3 Credits, Offered Fall and Spring

Forms and techniques of fiction, poetry and creative nonfiction for beginning students. Includes discussion of students' work in class and in individual conferences. Close study of the techniques of established writers. Prerequisites: ENGL F111X or permission of instructor. (3+0)

In this course we will explore the basic craft of creative writing in three genres: creative nonfiction, poetry and fiction. As we write, we will discuss matters such as getting a first sentence or line on the page, creating characters, developing a rising tension strong enough to carry the reader through the work, structure and meter in poetry, and revising a final draft.

You can expect to do a great deal of writing and reading both in and out of class this semester. We will be thinking on the page as we produce stories, poems and essays, analyze our own writing, and respond to other writers in the class and in the assigned texts. First and foremost, our purpose together will be to provide the means of exploring and expanding your imaginative powers, and to learn methods of expressing those imaginative powers in language through the craft of prose and poetry. Writing is the best way I know to learn about ourselves--about our hearts, our passions, our dreams, about what it is that motivates us, drives our emotions, makes us persevere against all obstacles, causes us to love or to hate. In short, what it is that makes us human.

A final note: For me, the study of creative writing is an important form of the study of literature. It would be unthinkable for an art student to get a degree without ever creating a work of art, or for a music major to never play an instrument. Just as painting on canvas can help one to better appreciate Renoir or Picasso, or pounding out notes on a piano can greatly inform one's appreciation of Mozart or Coltrane, so can the writing of fiction allow us a greater appreciation for the stories of Joyce Carol Oates, or the poems of Ted Kooser. This course is, in part, designed to offer you the chance to become better, more imaginative readers. Even if you leave this class and never write another story in your life, if you engage with the work in the class, you should leave with a greater understanding of the power of language, and with tools for a deeper knowledge of the creative process as it applies to all literature.

COURSE GOALS

By the end of the semester, you will have developed the skills necessary to develop writing projects in poetry, fiction and nonfiction, through the stages of generating ideas, revising and editing. You will also develop skills to respond critically to professional and peer writing.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

In this class students will:

- read and analyze texts written by published poets and prose writers well known for their contributions to the creative writing field;
- develop polished texts of their own writing based on applicable skills in invention, process, revision and editing;
- participate in critical peer responses to classmate's writing in both small group and full-class format.

REQUIRED TEXTS

Bird by Bird, by Anne Lamott
The Poetry Repair Manual, Ted Kooser
Poetry 180, ed Billy Collins
Building Fiction, Jesse Lee Kercheval
The Victoria Real of Contamonary American Short Steet

The Vintage Book of Contemporary American Short Stories, ed. Tobias Wolff

OTHER MATERIALS

A personal journal

Also: plan to spend up to $20 for photocopying drafts

There will also be a variety of handouts throughout the semester. It's a good idea to keep a portfolio or file of some kind to help organize these handouts.

INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS

The class will consist of in-class discussion, writing exercises, literature and writing craft lectures, discussion of assigned readings and small peer workshop.

EVALUATION AND GRADING

Grading:

Your grade will be broken down as follows:

Assignment	%	Points
Writing Exercises (15 points each)	15%	150
Fiction Project	15%	150
Poetry Project	15%	150
Nonfiction Project	15%	150
Final Portfolio	20%	200
Peer Responses	10%	100
Final Reading Presentation	10%	100
Total	100%	1000

Grade will be based on following scale:
93-100 – A
90-92 – A-
87-89 – B+
83-86 – B
80-82 – B-
73-79 – C+
70-72 – C-
60-69 – D
59 and below – F

Writing Exercises (15%)

Writing exercises are for the writer what scales are for the musician--a way to practice, and to perfect technique. Many of the assigned exercises will come directly from the text books. You will be assigned 10 of these, so they will be worth 15 points each.

Nonfiction, Poetry and Fiction Projects (15% each)

Each student will turn in one finished project in each of the three genres at the end of that unit. These projects will be developed and revised and should be clean polished drafts, with no grammatical errors, and should demonstrate understanding of the writing elements and conventions we discuss in class. These projects will be evaluated using a rubric.

Final Portfolio (20%)

The Final Portfolio turned in at the end of the semester should include:

- 1. A typed Preface to the portfolio of 2-3 pages exploring the techniques used and influences in the revised essay, as well as exploration of your development as a writer over the semester.
- 2. One final polished revision of one of the three projects, with notations of changes made.
- 3. Copies of all written peer responses
- 4. All previous drafts of projects.
- 5. All Reader's Responses and Exercises

This portfolio will be evaluated using a rubric.

Peer Responses (10%)

Throughout the semester we will spend a lot of time reading and responding to each other's work. Sometimes this will occur in small groups and sometimes as a full group. This is what's commonly referred to as workshop. Often we will take each other's work home, read it and discuss the work the following class period. It is important when this happens that we all come prepared with written responses ready to address key points of the work. Because the number of responses depends on the number of students in class, I will grade these holistically. Whether word-processed or handwritten, remember to always save a copy of your peer responses for your final portfolio.

Final Reading Presentation (10%)

Over the final 2-3 class periods, we will convene to listen to each of you present your best work. This involves you reading a section from your portfolio out loud. This will be in lieu of a final exam, and will be the culmination of what I am sure will be a great semester!

This presentation will be evaluated using a rubric.

UAF SPONSORED READINGS

Please plan to attend as many of the UAF readings this semester as you can. This is a great opportunity to hobnob with actual living writers and enter into the literary community here at UAF. Here is a website with the schedule for the Midnight Sun Visiting Writers Series: http://www.alaska.edu/english/midnight-sun-visiting-wri/

COURSE POLICIES

Plagiarism

Examples of plagiarism are: 1) submitting work as one's own that is at least partly the work of another; 2) submitting work that has been obtained from an Internet or other source; 3) incorporating words or ideas of another author without citing author as source. If you willfully commit plagiarism or any other form of academic misconduct, you will fail the assignment. A second offense will result in a failing grade in the class.

Draft Workshops

Writing is a process—you should plan on writing at least two drafts per . During draft workshops days, come to class prepared with 4 copies of your rough draft. In groups of 4 or so, you will read through these drafts and receive and give feedback. This process will help you strengthen your argument and delve deeper into your topic, as well as help you to identify grammatical and syntax errors. Please remember to bring draft copies on draft workshop days.

ETC.

- All assignments should be double-spaced, 12 point Times New Roman, with MLA style heading. Also, insert last name and page number in upper right hand corner in a header, beginning with page two (2). Papers must be handed in as hard copy on the day that they are due. I do not accept e-mailed assignments, unless pre-approved.
- Please staple all multi-page assignments.
- Please make sure that cell phones and all electronic devices are turned off at all times during class.
- I will dismiss you in plenty of time for you to gather your books and bags. The shuffling of papers and packing of bags five to ten minutes before class is over can be a less than subtle non-verbal message to me that you are incredibly bored and can't wait to leave. I find this to be very distracting and rude. Please trust that I will dismiss you on time.

THE WRITING CENTER

The Writing Center, located on the 8th floor of Gruening, provides a valuable (yet free!) service to UAF students. The center provides tutors who are available to go over your papers in detail. These tutors are generally graduate students who are well trained in helping students with all aspects of the writing process. Sometimes these tutors are better able to provide help and feedback than even your professors. And it's not just for remedial writers—even the most experienced writers know that sometimes an outside reader can help identify and overcome stumbling blocks.
